LOVE Northumberland, HATE Litter

Residents are showing their love for the county as the successful county wide clean-up campaign, 'Love Northumberland, Hate Litter', has launched for the second year.

The campaign, which aims to raise awareness of the negative impacts of littering, focuses on engagement, education and enforcement to tackle littering.

The council is working in collaboration with schools, parish and town councils, businesses and local organisations to raise awareness of littering and to develop solutions to local issues.

A number of schools and community groups have marked the launch of the campaign by carrying out litter picking events in their local areas with support from the council which provided equipment for the events.

Lighting up Northumberland

A three-year scheme to replace over 40,000 streetlights in the county with modern, energy-efficient LED lamps has entered its second year.

The £23m street lighting modernisation project has already seen almost 5,000 lights replaced and over 3,500 new lamp-posts installed, which are using two thirds less energy than the old conventional lights. The project will create a 64% energy saving and net savings of nearly £300,000 a year.

New Chief Fire Officer

Northumberland has recently welcomed a new chief fire officer. Paul Hedley from Bedlington was the former deputy chief fire officer and has dedicated 25 years to the service. Paul's appointment follows the retirement of previous chief fire officer, Alex Bennett in July.

Market Towns Film

A new film explaining the council's Market Towns' Initiative is now available to view online. The film explains the reasons behind the authority's plans for its nine major towns, how savings are being made and the benefits to the people of Northumberland.

You can watch it now on youtube.com/NorthumberlandTV 'The future of your council services'.

New Civic Head

Councillor Alan Sambrook has been elected as the new civic head for Northumberland County Council, succeeding Cllr Kath Nisbet who is standing down after a year in office. In his position, Cllr Sambrook will carry out many community and ceremonial duties representing the county council across the region.

Care Services outstanding

The joint work of the Council and Northumbria Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust has been praised in a recent inspection by the Care Quality Commission. Inspectors rated the Trust overall, its community services, community end of life care and the immediate response team as outstanding.

The 'Northumberland Navy' our sail trainees

80 people between the ages of 15 and 63, have been recruited as sail trainees and will sail on board the Tall Ships during their race to Gothenburg, Sweden. Most come from Northumberland and many of our ward councillors are supporting them.

Northumberland sail trainees

Trainees will be involved in almost every activity from taking the helm, setting sails and even climbing the rigging. They will experience what it is like to work on a Tall Ship, learn new skills and challenge themselves.

Fergusons of Blyth, the Regatta's principal sponsor, is supporting 13 trainees as part of their sponsorship. Alan Ferguson, executive chairman, said: "We selected trainees from applications that were invited both within the company and from charities working in Blyth.

"They include Fergusons employees and young people from Bad Apples Dance in Blyth, all with little or no sailing experience, but with a great sense of adventure and huge enthusiasm for this amazing opportunity. We are delighted to be sponsoring them."

Emily Runciman, aged 18, a student from Ashington is Northumberland County Council's Tall Ships ambassador.

She is taking part in her second event having sailed to Belfast for a Tall Ships Race last summer. Emily is sponsored by Active Northumberland and the Port of Blyth.

Emily, a member of the Northumberland Sport coaching academy at Northumberland College, said: "When you're sailing, you see things you'd never see on land such as whales, dolphins, an extremely clear starry sky but, most of all, being able to watch the sun rise and set without being blocked by buildings."

Other sponsors supporting trainees include IHC Engineering, DFDS, Bedlington Parish Council, Northumberland County Council Youth Service and Northumberland Sports Fund.

It includes the reanimation of the Blyth Carnival and the production of three large scale evening performances.

Councillor Val Tyler, cabinet member for arts, leisure and culture at Northumberland County Council, said: "This is a very exciting free event and has something for all the family with the wonderful Tall Ships in port and 1.5 miles of entertainment including music, theatre and a spectacular fireworks display."

Northumberland
Northumberland County Council

We are the Champions

They're the people working behind the scenes to help transform our market towns.

Eight senior council officers are combining their day jobs with helping take forward the proposals for each of the county's main market towns.

Across Northumberland the council has identified opportunities to generate over £33million in capital income, contribute significantly to economic growth and regeneration and make annual savings in its running costs of £3.4million by ensuring all its properties are fit for the 21st Century and selling its surplus buildings.

Known as "Town Champions", their role is to work with a variety of stakeholders, share information and promote the delivery of the plans in their towns.

The officers come from a variety of backgrounds – including housing, leisure and economic growth – but all will be working to help ensure our market towns flourish.

Council leader Grant Davey said: "These are exciting times across the county – as part of our market towns initiative new buildings are going up while others are being refurbished – all with the aim of improving services for residents and boosting economic growth.

“The Town Champions act as a link between the council and the towns”

List of Town Champions:

|-------------|-------------------------|
| Alnwick | Dave Campbell |
| Ashington | Janice Rose |
| Bedlington | Dean Jackson |
| Berwick | Geoff Paul |
| Blyth | Phil Soderquest |
| Cramlington | Geoff Paul |
| Hexham | Lorraine Dewison |
| Morpeth | Nigel Walsh |
| Ponteland | Sue Aviston |

"The Town Champions act as a link between the council and the towns as we take plans forward and ensure information can be passed both ways.

"And as officers they have no political persuasion – they are simply looking to get the best for every town and if successful, we will look to extend the role to other towns in the country"

Who is my Town Champion?

for Alnwick

Alnwick is a place close to Dave Campbell's heart. He has lived in the town for over 12 years and also spent five years in Alnwick in the 1980's when he worked for the Valuation Office in Wagonway Road.

Dave is well known in the local community and is president of The Alnwick Rotary Club. He is currently a senior property surveyor at the county council and is a part-time wedding registrar for the Alnwick area.

Dave said: "Having lived and worked in the town for many years, I have a passion for Alnwick and a personal interest in its development and success.

"The council is looking to invest in and improve its services in the town. There are a number of exciting projects already underway including the refurbishment of the historic Northumberland Hall and a multi-million pound investment to create a state-of-the-art community fire station and expanded council depot on the Lionheart Enterprise Park."

Dave is looking forward to working closely with the local community as he develops his role as Town Champion.

for Berwick

As the council's director of planning and economy, Geoff Paul is well-placed to help take Berwick forward as its town champion.

As the council faces significant challenges over the next few years Geoff is fully aware the organisation will need to change and do things differently if it is to continue to successfully meet the increasing expectations of the residents in the county.

Geoff said: "This is an exciting role for me and I am committed to working with the various organisations in Berwick to further improve what the town has to offer.

"One of the great things about Berwick is the people are passionate about their town and I really want to capture that as we go forward.

"I know there are challenges ahead but there are also numerous opportunities and I'll be doing my best to ensure we achieve what's best for Berwick."

Pupils LOVE Northumberland

Pupils from Tweedmouth West First School have been recognised for going the extra mile to love your local area.

Tweedmouth West First School was recognised in the LOVE Northumberland awards as the runners up of the Best Children's Project Award. The school was recognised for their Forest School project where pupils have spent time planting saplings, hedges and fruit trees and building up a village area with a fire pit, log seating and grass huts.

Pupils have also made bird boxes and bug hotels to encourage wildlife into the local area.

The school also has a thriving school gardening club which is supported by students, staff and families creating a strong community link.

Pupils at the school have really gone the extra mile to show their love for Northumberland while also learning outdoors.

Investing in North Northumberland

Building an affordable future

The first local residents are now moving in to a new affordable housing development in Shilbottle which has been funded and developed by the council.

Shilbottle housing development

The multi-million pound scheme will provide 20 affordable homes which will be rented out to people with a local connection to the area. The properties are of varying sizes with options for older people, families and single people which will add to the vibrancy of the community.

The council has placed a strong emphasis on building new council homes and has built almost 300 new properties in the last three years.

Key road re-opened ahead of Bank Holiday rush

A complicated £10million repair scheme came to an end when a Northumberland road blocked by a major landslip reopened to traffic.

The B6344 road at Crag End, near Rothbury, had been closed completely after a land slip that started on Boxing Day 2012. After 13 months of construction, contractors worked round the clock to get the road open before the Easter holidays – and succeeded with hours to go.

The construction work involved driving hundreds of concrete filled steel tubes up to 80 feet into the ground, with a large concrete beam across the top and 144 ground anchors connected around 100 feet into the ground to stop the land from moving. The project later won an award at the Robert Stephenson Awards, hosted by the Institute of Civil Engineering.

Future is bright for Alnwick Playhouse

The council has reached agreement in principle with both the Northumberland Theatre Company and Alnwick District Playhouse Trust who co-own the building which will see the building continue to be a theatre, while the council will use part of the building to provide a library, tourist information and front-office council facilities.

The agreement will include the repair and refurbishment of the Playhouse to provide a modern multi-purpose building that will service the needs of the community and visitors to the town.

Northgate unit set for success

A new state of the art facility in Morpeth will be leading the way in specialist care when it opens its doors in October.

The new 15-bed facility, on the existing Northgate Hospital site, provides temporary accommodation, treatment and support for adults with an autistic spectrum disorder.

The specialist unit has benefited from a multi-million pound investment which has improved the communal living, learning and leisure facilities.

The facility is part of the Northumberland, Tyne and Wear NHS Foundation Trust's (NTW) specialist assessment and treatment inpatient service and will provide 24 hour support for adults with complex needs.

The new building will replace two outdated buildings on the site which are no longer fit for purpose, and has a number of design features that can be adapted by staff and patients to suit individual needs and preference in a bid to minimise change and reduce anxiety.

Residents will stay in single or shared flats within the unit which have a range of internal and external shared spaces offering opportunities for sensory therapy and recreational activity.

Councillor Scott Dickinson, vice chair of the Health and Wellbeing Board at Northumberland County Council visited the facility ahead of its launch. He said: "The new facility at Northgate is a fantastic development and a much-needed asset to Northumberland and the wider region.

"It is vital that everyone has access to the support they need to live as independently as possible and this purpose-built specialist care facility will allow exactly that.

"The previous unit was in high demand but just wasn't suitable to meet the needs of a modern medical facility anymore. The new facility is greatly improved and will undoubtedly benefit those who need it most.

Below: Artists impressions of the new Northgate unit*

Work started on the building in May 2015 and is due to open its doors to the first residents in October.

Will Green, Northumberland, Tyne and Wear NHS Foundation Trust, said: "This will be a wonderful specialist centre; not just for our local area but for the nation. It's great that something of such national standing is being built right here in Northumberland. It's been designed with service users at its heart and they will continue to shape the way care is provided when the centre opens its doors later this year."

Patients to the unit are referred by specialist learning disability and mental health teams regionally and nationally.

Stay safe this Summer

Summer is here, and that means day trips to the beach, long walks in the countryside, and family barbecues. But what about the potential health hazards that come with the warmer weather? Take a look at these five Summer tips to make sure you stay healthy and safe while you enjoy what the great British Summer has to offer safely.

Take care with picnic food

Dairy and meat products are among the worst offenders when it comes to food poisoning, so you need to take care when cooking food on a barbecue or taking it on a picnic. Just a couple of hours out of the fridge can cause nasty bacteria to develop.

- Make sure you thoroughly wash your hands and work surfaces
- Keep your raw meat products wrapped and separated from other foods
- Use separate utensils for raw food
- Thaw frozen food thoroughly in the fridge before cooking
- Ensure all food is cooked thoroughly before serving and meat is no longer pink, the juices clear and steaming hot

Be sensible in the sun

It's easy to underestimate the strength of the British sun and many people will go without sunscreen in search of the perfect tan but ultraviolet radiation (UV) can be extremely damaging and it's vital to protect your skin from harmful rays and heat.

- Apply sunscreen regularly to any exposed areas of skin (min factor 15)
- Wear a peaked or wide brimmed hat to protect your face
- Drink plenty of fluids to avoid dehydration
- Take a break from the sun if you're feeling dizzy or nauseous
- Cool off in the shower or apply an ice pack to overheated skin

Avoid accidents in the garden

The summer months are great for those wanting to do some serious work in the garden. But the combination of summer clothing and footwear with lawnmowers, spades and secateurs – may be an accident waiting to happen.

- Wear closed or steel-toed shoes when mowing or digging the garden
- Keep children well out of the way when using the mower or any power tools
- Pay attention to trip hazards such as hosepipes, flagstones, and plant pots
- Keep an orderly shed where chemicals and tools are safely stored
- Hire a professional to do the hard work, while you put your feet up!

Take the sting out of summer

With the warmer weather comes the sudden appearance of bees, wasps, and other stinging insects. In Britain, our insects tend to be bothersome rather than dangerous, but you can't be too careful.

- Avoid wearing heavy perfumes and scents which are attractive to bees
- If you get stung, wash the sting area with soap and water and apply a cold compress
- Keep a lid on your food and sugary drinks
- Use a good insect repellent in the form of a spray, cream, or wristband
- Cover your arms and legs, and wear gloves when gardening

Change4Life 10 Minute Shake Up is back!

Change4Life and Disney are teaming up again this summer with a campaign to inspire children to get active.

Just keep moving

Each one of the Disney-inspired games counts as a 'Shake Up' and goes towards the hour of physical activity kids need each day.

Children who are overweight or obese are more likely to develop illnesses like heart disease, some cancers and type-2 diabetes so it's important that children eat a balanced diet and get plenty of exercise to stay healthy. The 10 minute shake up is a fun way for parents and children to learn about being active together.

Get Active Northumberland (GAN) provide support via free programmes offering information and advice to families from NHS health professionals through a range of fun activities. They also run a range of specific programmes across Northumberland for parents with children aged 5-13 years.

Children need to do at least 60 minutes of activity a day to help them stay happy and healthy but it doesn't have to be sport – any burst of 10 minute activity counts towards the physical activity kids need every day.

Look out for the Shake Ups coming soon to the Shake Up Zone on www.nhs.uk/10-minute-shake-up and to find out more about Get Active Northumberland programmes happening near you contact the GAN team on 01670 784183 or email gan@nhct.nhs.uk

Walking and cycling high on Northumberland's agenda

A plan to get more residents cycling and walking has been introduced to Northumberland to bring a new travel culture by 2025 and encourage 90% of residents to make at least one journey a week on foot or on a bike.

Only 13% of journeys in Northumberland under 5km are currently made on foot or on two wheels. The plan includes ambitions to secure investment in the county, improve safety conditions, engage more women and people in their 50s, and get every school in the county signed up to a travel scheme.

Five key programmes over the next two to three years will build on the legacy of the Tour of Britain in 2015, improve pedestrian and cycling environments in towns, and long distance routes across the county, and encourage businesses to cater more for walkers and cyclists.

The strategy is outlined in Geared Up, a new prospectus drawn up by members of the Northumberland Cycling and Walking Board including Northumberland County Council, Active Northumberland, Sustrans, Kielder Water and Forest Park, Northumberland National Park, Northumberland Tourism, and the Northumberland Clinical Commissioning Group, with support from Natural England.
