

Children are being exploited by gangs involved in drug crime. Know the signs to spot.

County lines gangs use children and vulnerable people to courier drugs and money. A young person who is involved in county lines activity might exhibit some of these signs:

Persistently going missing from school or home, or being found out-of-area

Unexplained acquisition of money, clothes or mobile phones

excessive receipt of texts or phone calls

Relationships with controlling, older individuals or gang association

Leaving home or care without explanation

Suspicion of self-harm, physical assault or unexplained injuries

Parental concerns

Significant decline in school performance

Significant changes in emotional well-being

Have you seen a child, sometimes as young as 12, travelling long distances alone?

They might seem unfamiliar with the local area, or not have a local accent

They could be travelling during school hours or unusual hours (early in the morning, late at night)

Are they travelling the same route on a regular basis (once or twice a week)?

They could be receiving excessive texts or phone calls

Are they deliberately avoiding authority figures such as police officers or other members of staff?

Some may be with older individuals who are purchasing tickets for them or giving them money for tickets.

If you see something that doesn't feel right, or looks suspicious, concerning a child or young person you should report it to Crime Stoppers on 0800 555 111.
