

Grant Glendinning

Executive Principal North, NCG

Grant Glendinning has 23 years' experience of teaching, management and leadership in Further and Higher Education, beginning his career in London colleges. Progressing through the ranks at City and Islington College to its senior management team, he served as Director for its Centre for Lifelong Learning for 6 years, during which time he oversaw the strategic vision, planning, delivery and evaluation of the Centre. He then went on to take up role as Vice Principal and later Interim Principal for the College.

In 2018, he moved to Carlisle to take up the principalship of Carlisle College, part of the NCG group, and in 2020 he was appointed to the role of Executive Principal for NCG North, responsible for Newcastle College, Carlisle College and West Lancashire College.

The themes of his career achievements to date feature remodelling and repositioning of significant areas of educational offer, identifying and creating pathways for progression and forging innovative partnerships across a diverse range of stakeholders.
